

Use case realization	the development of a use case from its initial identification during requirements elicitation to its implementation.
User	any organization or person that uses the system to input or process data, or who receives the results of such processing.
User interface	interaction between the user and the system.
Validation	see Requirements validation .
Visibility	describes the accessibility of an attribute or operation. Visibility can be public, private or protected.
Workflow	in object-oriented development activities, such as analysis, design and implementation are referred to as workflows.
«extend»	stereotyped relationship between two use cases. A use case linked by an «extend» relationship specifies significant alternative behaviour.
«include»	stereotyped relationship between two use cases, such that behaviour common to several use cases can be shared between them.