development phase 7–10 development stage 6 domain class 223, 334 domain model 118, 334 dynamic binding 100, 334	guard 336 activity diagram 204 interaction diagram 258–9 state diagram 184–5 GUI (graphical user interface) 228–9
elaboration phase in object-oriented life cycle 7 elicitation see requirements elicitation encapsulation 77, 83–4, 87, 107, 334 engineering see requirements engineering entity class 223, 334	'happy day' scenario 171, 336 hardware platform 336 HCI (human computer interface) see user interface high level use case description 45, 336
environment 334 essential use case 58, 335 event 182–3, 192–3, 196, 335 expanded use case description 46–8, 335 extend relationship (in use case) see «extend»	implementation 336 class diagram 268–72 stage in traditional life cycle 6 implementation-dependent 222, 337 implementation diagrams 15, 222–3, 229–31 component 15, 222, 229–31 deployment 15, 222–3, 229–31
Façade pattern 244 Fagan inspection 34, 335 feasibility study 335 feature 335	implementation-independent 222, 337 inception phase in object-oriented life cycle 7 include relationship in use case see fire 335 state transition 183 foreign key 240, 335 fork 335	«include» incremental development 7, 337 information hiding 337, see also data hiding in activity diagram 203 framework 4, 336 advantages 4 front end 336 functional decomposition 76-8, 336	inheritance 92–5, 99, 109, 129–30, 337 hierarchy 95 implementing in a relational database 241–2 in use case diagram 56 functionality 78, 147–75, 210, 336	initiating actor 56–7, 337 input 337 installation generalization in class diagram 92-5, 129-30 in use case 56	stage in traditional life cycle 6 instance 88, 337 instantiation 88, 96, 337 get method 100, 336 goal use case 44, 45, 49	interaction 337 interaction diagram 15, 155–66, 170–1, 195, 196, 257–63, 337
granularity of use cases 62-3, 336	and use cases 54 collaboration 162–4